

Who will grant me rest in you?
St. Augustine (354-430)

You are great, Lord, and very worthy of praise great is your power, and your wisdom is without measure! To praise you, that is our desire, poor particle of your creation, who bears, throughout, the weight of our mortality.

Who bears, throughout, the sign of our sins and witness that you resist the proud, and yet, to praise you, that is our desire poor particle of your creation. It is you who invite us to take pleasure in praising you, for you created us for yourself, and our hearts are restless until they rest in you.

Who will grant us rest in you? Who will grant that you come into our hearts, that you may overwhelm with intoxication so that we may forget our pain and that we may embrace you.

What are you to me? Have mercy so we may speak!
What are we to you that you order us to Love you....

ST. AUGUSTINE,
PRAY FOR US!
